Rudolf Budginas, pianist

Thursday, October 15, 2009

Musical Prodigy Rudolf Budginas debuted with the Lithuanian National Symphony at age nine, trained at Moscow Conservatory, and promptly rose to international fame performing solo concerts. After moving to the U.S. in 1994, he discovered his true passion: giving classical music a broader audience appeal.

Quattrocelli

Thursday, November 5, 2009

Audiences love the unorthodox style and panache of quattrocelli. This ensemble of four impeccable cellists continues to blaze its own virtuoso path away from the musical mainstream. Trained in Germany under Hans-Christian Schwieker, these crowd-pleasing consummate musicians astonish listeners by using their cellos as drums, guitars, and much more.

Amstel Quartet

Tuesday, April 13, 2010

From the mystery of Bach's Second Cello Suite in D to Michael Nyman's music for the film The Piano, the saxophone group known as Amstel Quartet unleashes unstoppable energy with ingenious original arrangements. Composers such as György Ligeti and Philip Glass have praised their adaptations, but it's the group's technical prowess that allows such arrangements of every genre from chamber, theatre, dance, mime and cinema to simply shimmer in the ear.

Daniel Rodriguez, tenor

Monday, May 17, 2010

Former New York City police officer, Daniel Rodriguez has experienced a meteoric rise to fame. He was one of his department's designated anthem singers on September 11, 2001, when fate intervened -- he rendered a capella performances of "God Bless America" and the National Anthem that proved far greater than a patriotic gesture. Ringing, heartfelt and beautiful, his performance stirred the hearts of the entire nation.
